The Dartington Trust is the HE provider, in academic partnership with University of Plymouth. Schumacher College and Dartington Arts School are faculties within The Dartington Trust.

Welcome and Introduction

Welcome to Dartington Arts School

Each year, students from all over the world come to Dartington's Arts School and Schumacher College to share in a uniquely immersive learning experience. Alongside faculty, staff, and volunteers, you have chosen to become part of a learning community that is a creative catalyst for more just and sustainable ways of living. As you start on your learning journey you will quickly find yourself part of a vibrant and organic community in which learning transcends the boundaries of the classroom and moves into the gardens, the kitchens, and the more-than-human world around us.

Learning is a deeply shared experience here. Our programmes-in Arts, Economics, Design, Food and Farming, Movement, Ecology, Holistic Science and more-are only part of a constellation of experiences that includes every facet of daily life: from the food you eat (much of which is grown right on the estate), to the performances and films you attend, to the community work you join in, to walks in the woods and wild swimming in the River Dart.

In becoming a student here, you stand on an extraordinary historical legacy of artmaking at Dartington. You will add your own experience and expertise to a global network of thousands of alumni, lecturers, and practitioners who continue the critical work of helping to address the world's tremendous environmental and social challenges through arts practice.

We are so glad you are here, and we look forward to getting to work with you.

Emily Hoare
Acting Head of Dartington Arts School

Welcome to our postgraduate programme MA Poetics of Imagination, delivered at Dartington Arts School by the independent HE provider, The Dartington Trust. The postgraduate programmes of The Dartington Trust are validated by University of Plymouth (UoP). Dartington Arts School is one of two faculties within The Dartington Trust, which are based on the historic Dartington estate. Our sister faculty is Schumacher College. The Dartington Trust is a charity that has been contributing to the development of a more sustainable and equitable world since 1925. Dartington Arts School students join an incredible community of alumni who have experienced progressive learning in the arts at Dartington.

Poetics of Imagination explores orality, story and culture, examining how we have conjured stories from the earliest times to the present day. We are exploring the contention that when humans imagine, they tend to imagine in story. We are also asking: what is trying to be told right now? The core of the course is focused on the study of stories and narratives, with particular emphasis on the oral tradition. There are opportunities to engage in creative practice alongside and in dialogue with your study of stories and narratives.

The programme was developed by Dr Martin Shaw working in dialogue with Dr Tracey Warr, and together with colleagues at UoP, external advisers from University of South Wales and The Poetry Society.

Teaching at Dartington is concentrated into two-week periods for each of the first four modules, with supported e-learning and independent learning in between. The final module is supported through an individual tutorial process. Though we are your primary tutors, we also invite in a range of other visiting teachers and Associate Lecturers. A key strand of the programme is the development of your professional practice skills and knowledge.

This Programme Quality handbook contains important information including the approved programme specification and module records. Note that the information in this handbook should be read in conjunction with the current edition of:

- Your University Student Institution Handbook which contains student support based information on issues such as finance and studying at HE available at:
<https://campus.dartington.org/resources/guides-and-handbooks/>
- Your University of Plymouth Student Handbook available at:
<https://www.plymouth.ac.uk/your-university/governance/student-handbook>

Good luck on your learning journey, which we very much look forward to sharing with you.

4 Distinctive Features of the Programme and the Student Experience

- The MA Poetics of Imagination develops narrative tracking capabilities. Students travel through the geography of a number of folktales including those of Dartmoor. They will experience a storied landscape, embodied with mnemonic triggers. This narrative tracking practice is something they will be able to develop in their own home regions, whether urban or rural, coastal or riverine.
- Development of knowledge and understanding of Western and indigenous mythic narratives. From the ancient to the contemporary. From both oral tellings and reading, we will examine myths that underpin much Western thought, especially the role of the individual. From the indigenous worlds we encounter very different dynamics within their stories. Comprehension of both similarities and difference is crucial in these encounters between traditions.
- Exploration of the role of orality within literature, words crafted for the tongue and for the page.
- Reflection on your critical engagement with ancient stories through your own creative practice. Assessments place the primary focus on critical engagements with a range of stories and texts, but also evaluate the creative practice you develop alongside your critical studies.
- Critical evaluation of literature and orality in relation to historic and cultural contexts, and its relevance to contemporary issues: ecology, feminism, technology and the digital, relationship to place.
- Short intensive teaching and learning approach based in the living and working community on the Dartington estate, with its distinctive topography and histories of progressive education, politics, performance and art.
- Potential for interactions with students and staff on other programmes at Dartington including MA Arts and Place, master's students enrolled at Schumacher College and participants enrolled on short courses.
- Development of research techniques through a dissertation or practice-led research project presented in the public domain.

5 Relevant QAA Subject Benchmark Group(s)

The programme has been developed with reference to the SEEC level 7 Descriptors (2010) and OAA guidance. Whilst there are pertinent OAA subject benchmarks for bachelor's study in English, Creative Writing and Art and Design, there are no directly applicable OAA subject benchmarks for this programme at master's level. However, reference has been made to the OAA Master's Degree Characteristics Statement.

6 Programme Structure

Students can take the course full-time over one year, or part-time over two years.

MA Poetics of Imagination is a low residential programme with 4 x 30 credit modules and 1 x 60 credit (Major Project/Dissertation) module, all at FHEQ Level 7.

Each of the first four (30 credit) modules include:

- A 2-week residential element at Dartington followed by
- 4 weeks supported e-learning.

The Major Project involves a research workshop and proposal process followed by 11 weeks supported e-learning and on line or face to face tutorials.

Part-time

Part-time students gain their 180 M credits as follows:

MA Part-time pathway (24 months): Students complete three core modules in Academic Year 1, and the fourth core module and Major Project/Dissertation in Academic Year 2 for the full masters, all at FHEQ Level 7. Modules 2-4 can be taken in any order to allow for flexible study options for part-time students with other demands on their time. The following is an indicative diagram of a chronological selection of modules. Alternatively, modules 1, 3 and 4 can be taken in year 1, and modules 2 and 5 in year 2. The diagram below is indicative and not the only possible route.

7 Programme Aims

The programme is intended to:

- a) Critically engage with a range of Western and indigenous narratives, both oral and literate. We will particularly address the roles of the storyteller, creation myths, from animism to civilisation, folk tales in relation to wildness and domesticity.
- b) Develop skills in research, critical reading and writing, creative writing or practice, performance and presentation, fieldwork and documentation.
- c) Analyse the journey from the mythological to the psychological within the Arthurian and courtly romances of the 12th and 13th century. This multicultural endeavour draws upon a changing relationship to love, gender and spirituality, and the influence of Persian culture, especially poetry, on the medieval mind.
- d) Enable students to undertake a substantial investigation that addresses significant areas of literary theory and practice.
- e) Critically evaluate what romanticism could mean in the face of the contemporary concerns of climate change, feminism, class, and racial divisions.

8 Programme Intended Learning Outcomes

Graduates from the programme should demonstrate:

8.1 Knowledge and understanding

8.1.1 A critical understanding of the field of ancient to contemporary Western and non-Western narrative, especially the oral tradition, studied in the programme and a knowledge of intercultural influences in literature.

8.1.2 An understanding of the social, historical, and cultural contexts of the narratives studied and the pertinence of past narratives for contemporary society and issues

8.1.3 An ability to articulate the differing nuance between oral and literate cultures, its implications, opportunities and losses

8.1.4 A coherent appreciation of a range of literary genres.

8.2 Cognitive and intellectual skills

8.2.1 A comprehensive understanding of techniques applicable to their own research

8.2.2 Conceptual understanding that enables the critical evaluation of current research and advanced scholarship in the discipline and the evaluation of methodologies

8.2.3 A critical engagement with the theoretical literature relevant to the context they are working in, demonstrating the ability to analyse, evaluate, compare and contrast, and synthesise solutions for the given context

8.2.4 Desk research and critical writing skills.

8.3 Key and transferable skills

8.3.1 An ability to lead and/or work in a team

8.3.2 Written and verbal presentation skills

8.3.3 Performance skills

8.3.4 An ability to engage with peers and give constructive feedback.

8.3.5 Ability to recognise their own creativity and rigorous creative practice and how it informs their lives and has impact.

8.4 Employment related skills

8.4.1 Understanding of a number of technologies in relation to the narratives studied – from ancient to digital

8.4.2 An ability to deal with complex issues both systematically and creatively, make sound judgements, and communicate conclusions clearly to specialist and non-specialist audiences

8.4.3 The independent learning ability required for continuing professional development, self-direction and originality in tackling and solving problems, and acting autonomously in planning and implementing tasks at a professional or equivalent level

8.4.4 A knowledge and understanding of pertinent professional practice contexts, the ability to develop professional practice project proposals and an ability to engage with social media for professional practice.

8.5 Practical skills

8.5.1 Originality in the application of knowledge, together with a practical understanding of how established techniques of research and enquiry are used to create and interpret knowledge in the discipline

8.5.2 Introduction to creative practical skills (which might include creative writing, image, editorial)

8.5.3 An ability to design and undertake fieldwork

8.5.4 An ability to design and produce project documentation.

9 Admissions Criteria, including APCL, APEL and Disability Service arrangements

Qualification(s) required for entry to the MA	Comments
BA (Honours) Degree	A first degree in a humanities subject. Where the first degree is not humanities-related, a portfolio of work will be required in support of the application or experience that is equivalent.
Other non-standard awards or experience	A willingness to engage with the fields of Poetics of the Imagination. Candidates will be considered with appropriate APCL and APEL subject to interview.
Interview requirements	All applicants are required to attend an interview, either at the School, or by skype.
IELTS or equivalent to an average score of 6.5	All overseas students requiring a Tier 4 visa who normally do not have an undergraduate degree awarded in English.
Independent Safeguarding Agency (ISA) or Criminal Record Bureau (CRB) clearance required.	Not required.

Candidates who declare a disability upon admission will be referred to disability support for assessment and further recommendations regarding study support. The programme includes a number of fieldtrips. Some of these are to museums or other publicly funded sites that already provide good access for visitors with disabilities. Other fieldtrips may involve walking on Dartmoor or at the coast. We will take all possible measures to ensure that students with disabilities can participate in these activities but cannot guarantee that this will always be possible. This is clearly communicated to applicants during their admission interviews so they can make an informed decision on whether to accept the offer of a place. Where students are not able to take part in organised fieldwork, we will ensure that alternative activities are put in place to allow every student to meet the learning outcomes of the module concerned.

1.Articulate the differing nuance between oral and literate cultures, its implications, opportunities and losses.
2.Display a coherent appreciation of the difference between an epic story and a wonder, folk or tribal tale.
3.Communicate changes of ambition in the genre, but also areas where some essential thread is maintained.
4.Demonstrate field research and documentation skills.
5.Demonstrate performance/presentation skills.
SCH5461 Glorious Distortions, FHEQ Level 7
1.Identify the move from the mythological to the psychological in the arc of the stories examined. To compare and contrast narrative motives.
2.Coherently demonstrate the diffusion of both Celtic and Persian influences within the study materials.
3.Articulate the heretical tensions between societal conduct and the romantic urgings of the troubadours.
4.Demonstrate field research and documentation skills.
5.Demonstrate creative practice skills.
SCH5462 Contemporary Romanticism, FHEQ Level 7
1.Articulate cultural and historical changes that have altered our perception of what romanticism could be in contemporary culture.
2.Demonstrate the conceptual versatility to tell a family narrative and equate elements to the mythic and psychological structures of previous modules.
3.Critically evaluate the work of one contemporary writer studied in relation to the Romantic tradition.
4.Demonstrate advanced desk research skills.
5.Utilise creative practice skills.
6.Demonstrate a knowledge of pertinent professional practice contexts and professional practice skills.
SCH5463 Major Project/Dissertation, FHEQ Level 7
1.Make a contribution to the development of poetics of imagination theory and/or practice.
2.Critically develop and systematically test, analyse and appraise their own inquiries, drawing original conclusions and displaying methodological and theoretical rigour.
3.Critically engage with the theoretical literature relevant to the context they are working in, demonstrating the ability to analyse, evaluate, compare and contrast, and synthesise solutions for the given context.
4.Demonstrate advanced research skills and academic writing and/or creative writing skills.
5.Demonstrate team work in the production of a public end of year event and/or publication.

Appendix 3: Additional costs to students

The tuition fees for the programme are posted on our webpage:

<https://campus.dartington.org/study/fees/>

In addition to tuition fees, students pay a programme-specific fee. Students can also choose to pay for onsite accommodation and board in the Dartington Learning Community for two weeks for each of the first four modules at the rates posted on the webpage above under Student Accommodation. They may, alternatively, opt to rent accommodation nearby or commute in and out of the campus if they live locally.

Other costs that students will incur on the programme are:

- Books and journals. All books and journals to be studied on the programme are available either in the Dartington Library or in University of Plymouth Library, but students may wish to purchase their own copies of a selection of key texts.
- Fieldtrips travel. These vary from year to year, but might include travel to Dartmoor, the south Devon coast, Tintagel or other similar site, a local museum, and the British Museum (students should budget for around £150 with a student railcard).
- Creative practice materials, specialist workshop facilities, final project production and presentation. These costs will vary depending on the type of creative practice students pursue and the final project that they present. Students should budget for these costs.
- Travel to and from Dartington for face-to-face teaching weeks. There are four two-week periods of teaching at Dartington for the first four modules. Unless students are living onsite or locally they will need to budget for the cost of travel to and from Dartington.
- If an international student, students will need to budget for the cost of a Tier 4 visa.

Summary of Module Content This module explores universal creation myths, focusing on Irish, Sumerian and Siberian cosmologies including The Invasion Tales of the Tuatha De Danann (Irish); The Red Bead Woman (Yakut); The Epic of Gilgamesh (Sumerian); Inanna (Sumerian). Walking the geography of several local stories to Dartmoor establishes the role of mnemonic triggers in the landscape of a storyteller's mind. The module offers a glimpse of how to think in myth. The relationship between stories and material culture (such as Assyrian sculptures and an Easter Island moai in the British Museum) are explored in fieldtrips and in hands-on art, performance, sound, and writing workshops that enable you to reflect on your critical engagement with ancient stories through creative practice. Workshops and cinema screenings focus on cave art and other prehistoric art and their resonances in the work of recent artists such as Ana Mendieta, Nancy Spero, Robert Smithson and Werner Herzog. Reading groups and seminars explore the ethnopoetic work of Jerome Rothenberg and Robert Bringhurst, Lewis Hyde on tricksters, Jack Zipes and Angela Carter in relation to folk and fairytales, Marcel Mauss on the techniques of the body; Norse creation myths and creation myth in the future fiction of Russell Hoban's Riddley Walker. Other writers examined include Sean Kane, Marie Heaney, Martin Shaw and Marija Gimbutas. Professional practice workshops introduce the production of a student-led online journal and blogging both as a means of critical self-reflection on your work, and as a way of engaging with audiences.

Summary of Module Content

This module draws on Bachelard's philosophy of imagination as an affective distortion of reality or valorization. The module considers historical shifts in understanding of the self and relationships ranging from hunter-gatherer cultures, to medieval romances and poetry, to contemporary understandings of the self and an internalised position. It addresses medieval cultural cross-pollination between Western and Islamic traditions.

The literature studied will include the romances of Culhwch and Olwen, The Pursuit of Dermot and Grainne, and Tristan and Isolde. A key supporting text is Leonard Lewisohn's Hafiz and the Religion of Love in Classical Persian Poetry. Other texts studied are The Mabinogion (trans. Davis), Dhuoda's Manual for her Son, The Trotula, the poetry of the troubadours and trobairitz, and letters written by medieval noblewomen. Other writers and texts discussed are likely to include the chronicles of medieval historians, C.S.Lewis, Paul Kingsnorth, Catherine Leglu, Gaston Bachelard, Amanda Jane Hingst, Peter Dronke, J.G. Ballard's Vermilion Sands and The Drowned World and Stanislaw Lem's Solaris.

Creative practice workshops on the medieval book and contemporary artists' books will consider the book as object and address the use of rhetoric in writing. A professional practice workshop with a publisher will introduce the production of an end of year publication.

Summary of Module Content This module considers the question of what romanticism could mean in contemporary culture, especially in relation to issues climate change, feminism, class, and racial divisions. It examines the work of Sylvia Plath, W. B. Yeats, Lorca, Kathleen Raine, Ted Hughes and Tony Hoagland. There will also be readings of, for instance, Jez Butterworth's play Jerusalem and Dylan Thomas's Under Milk Wood. Students will orally tell and discuss a family narrative utilising motifs and ideas developed through the programme, in order to communicate effectively where mythic themes reveal themselves in their own lives. Other 20th and 21st century texts and art for study in this module may include Joseph Beuys, Jack Kerouac, Sharon Olds, Robert Bly, Cecily Brown, Cy Twombly, Saul Bellow, Ursula LeGuin. The reading list will also include works by Camille Paglia, Harold Bloom, Jerome Rothenberg. We will consider the notion of the stream of consciousness and romanticism in art from 18th century Romantic Art to 20th century Abstract Expressionism and Land Art and contemplate the discourse on contemporary Romanticism in literature and art (e.g., Rosenblum, 1974; Heiser, 2007; Gilchrist, Joelson & Warr, 2015; Khalip & Pyle, 2016). Workshops and practical classes explore a range of contemporary digital contexts for storytelling and narrative including twitter fiction, hypertext, text-based interactive fictions and electronic poetry. Creative practice workshops explore surrealist techniques for making it strange and installed text. Professional practice workshops explore support networks for creative practice, issues such as copyright, contracts, and self-publishing.

Summary of Module Content The Major Project/Dissertation module enables students to undertake a substantial investigation that addresses significant areas of poetics of imagination theory and practice. This is a 15,000 word dissertation or creative writing project or a 50/50 combination of the two arising from a subject of the student's choosing and agreed upon with their supervisor. The project builds on the development of knowledge and understanding and the research methodology skills acquired in the previous modules. Assessment will be made of the student's ability to apply knowledge gained over the course of the taught elements of the master's in innovative ways. Students may work collaboratively or independently. They may produce an academic dissertation relating to the evolution of poetics of imagination and/or they may produce a creative piece of work (in any media) or produce a combination of these two tasks. Students will be provided with a list of potential titles and projects or are free to develop their own in consultation with their dissertation supervisor. Additional reading may include Gaston Bachelard, The Poetics of Space and Air and Dreams; Tom Cheetham, Imaginal Love: The Meanings of Imagination in Henry Corbin and James Hillman; James Hillman, Revisioning Psychology and Facing the Gods; Carla Stang, A Walk to the River in Amazonia; Martin Shaw, A Branch from the Lightning Tree.
